1879.

HE PITTSBURGH COMMITTEE, having charge of the collection and distribution of funds, provisions, etc., for the sufferers by Yellow Fever in the Southern States, in the summer and fall of 1878, in submitting their report to the public, deem it pertinent to preface the detailed statement of their operations by a brief history of the ravages of this fearful scourge, which called forth so noble and beneficent an exhibition of the humanity and benevolence of our people.

A BRIEF HISTORY

The Yellow Fever Epidemic,

IN THE

SUMMER AND FALL OF THE YEAR 1878.

Passing by the conflict of opinion among professional men of the south, whether the fever is indigenous in the Gulf line of States, it is stated on the authority of the President of the New Orleans Board of Health, that the cause of the terrible epidemic of last year has been traced directly to a ship from the West Indies. A passenger in that ship deceived the officials at the quarantine station, and succeeded in reaching New Orleans about the first of May. The day succeeding his arrival he was prostrated by Yellow Fever: but the physician who attended the case concealed the facts and certified that the man died from malarial fever. From this one case the epidemic of 1878 originated. The fever spread in four different directions from the house in which the man died. He lived but three days after reaching New Orleans. The woman who washed his clothing hung them to dry in a yard four squares distant; two persons in that yard took the fever and one of them died. By degrees the fever spread from place to place during the months of May, June, July and August, and when September was ushered in, the terrible destroyer had permeated the entire city. It was not until early in August that the fever was declared epidemic, and daily reports of the progress regularly sent over the wires.

The fever first spread to towns and plantations adjacent to New Orleans, and northward along the lines of railroad and the east bank of the Mississippi. It struck Baton Rouge, Vicksburg, Memphis on the river with fearful severity, and on the railroads, with varying degrees of severity: Canton, Grenada and Holly Springs, Mississippi; Chattanooga and Brownsville, Tennessee; Mobile, Florence and Decatur, Alabama; Hickman, Kentucky; and Cairo, Illinois. It penetrated as far eastward as Chattanooga, with some isolated cases in Florida, and as far northward as Gallipolis, where the plague was brought by the tow-boat Porter. There were also isolated cases in many of the northern cities, where refugees fleeing from the disease and carrying with them its germs, were stricken down at the very time they thought they had reached a place of safety. Such cases occurred in Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, New York, and other points.

The Ravages of the Disease,

Statistics of the number of cases and the mortality, are incomplete, and necessarily will remain so. At its first development efforts were made to suppress the actual facts in many places, and at its height, exaggerations doubtless crept in as to the number of deaths, although it would be almost impossible to exaggerate the horrors of the plague in the stricken towns and cities, or the great distress it caused among the people of the great south-west. The President of the United States, in his annual message, estimates from the best authority furnished him, the number of cases at one hundred thousand, and the deaths at twenty thousand, with a money loss reckoned by the hundreds of millions of dollars. Official returns received at the office of Surgeon General Woodsworth, of the Marine Hospital Service of the United States, show a total of 64,403 cases of the fever, and 13,536 deaths during the epidemic of 1878. This statement probably falls considerably below the actual number of cases and deaths.

The money loss is beyond anything more than a general estimate, based on the total cessation of business in the greater part of the north-west. Steamboats stopped running on the rivers, the foreign and home commerce of New Orleans was entirely suspended, the railroads were embargoed, the mails stopped, and communication between many important points limited to telegraphic messages. In the towns and cities all business was suspended, and workshops and manufactories closed, while in the country the farmer and planter saw their ungathered crops go to waste. In September, in New Orleans, Memphis, Vicksburg and some smaller towns, it was estimated there were 30,000 discharged workingmen, most of whom were heads of families, representing a total population of 120,000 in actual and destitute want. The number was largely increased in October. The loss to the business of the city of New Orleans alone, has been estimated by witnesses before the Congressional Yellow Fever Committee, at one hundred million of dollars. The Board of Experts, authorized by Act of Congress, in a report submitted on the 30th of January, made these statements, which are the latest estimates of the loss on life and property consequent on the disease:

At least eighteen thousand (and probably as many as twenty thousand,) deaths from yellow fever have occurred during the late epidemic. Of this number some three-fifths were minors and two-fifths were adults, representing a loss of $12,600,000, according to the basis of valuation already mentioned. It is believed that at least one hundred and twenty thousand cases of sickness from yellow fever took place during the same period. The loss of time of these patients was a public loss, and should be considered in any computation on the subject. The average duration of their illness and convalescence is not far from twenty-five days, and the value of their time may be put at fifty cents a day. This item would amount to $1,500,000. To this sum should be added the value of the labor diverted from production or useful activity by attendance upon 120,000 sick persons for ten days each, at fifty cents per day, $600,000. We are not able to estimate correctly the total losses to this country, but these losses have been variously estimated by others at sums ranging from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The Call for Aid and the Relief Movements.

It was not until the stricken cities and states of the southwest had exhausted their own resources, that a general appeal war made to the nation for help. The response was immediate and liberal. Few can realize the necessities of the people of the south at this time. Every department of business and industry was prostrated; in the cities only the druggists and undertakers pursued their usual avocation; the "shotgun quarantine," involving absolute non-intercourse, was established in many of the country towns exempt from the plague; traffic and travel was generally suspended in the afflicted states; provisions, including the prime necessities of life as well as those delicacies essential to the sick room, could not be had in the fever centres at any price; physicians and nurses were called for from almost all points where the plague had gained a foothold. The terrible straits of the people may be judged by the fact that the dead in some places lay for days unburied. supply of coffins was exhausted, and even lumber could not be procured to make the rude receptacles for the fever's victims. Cremation was adopted in some instances. The fever was no respecter of persons or localities; it seemed to set at defiance all known sanitary rules and regulations; it raged with equal fatality in the homes of the wealthy and in the hovels of the poorest. Neither age, sex or race were exempt, although in prior visitations the children and negroes had not suffered to the same extent as others. Not so now-it swept all. Towns noted for their salubrious climate and healthful surroundings, suffered equally with those less favored. Families were swept away, and great numbers of helpless orphans, without kith or kin, were left as a charge in a community, every member of which was plunged into the depths of despair by his or her own afflictions. Many noble men and women, physicians, nurses, and members of religious orders, who had hastened on the call for help to the fever districts, were stricken by disease, and became martyrs to their love of humanity and devotion to duty.

This was the condition of affairs at the south-west when the appeal on behalf of the bereaved, the sick and helpless, went forth to the people of sister states and communities. The way it was answered showed that our American brotherhood had a deeper meaning than we generally attribute to it; that all distinction of section or party, race or creed were swept away by the universal distress and want, and the whole people were merged in the level of a common humanity, benevolence and sympathy. Pittsburgh's part in the great and good work will compare favorably with that of any city in the country, when population and wealth are considered. In fact, it is the judgment of those in the south with whom the Relief Committee was brought into correspondence, that no city did better, and very few as well, when our capacity in population and resources is reckoned. This is not matter for boasting, but is a fact our own people will learn with satisfaction, as they will the equally gratifying fact that their efforts in alleviation of southern distress have been thoroughly appreciated by our distant countrymen, and their full scope and effect promptly and gratefully recognized.

The arrangements in the southern towns and cities, for the reception and disbursement of the money and supplies, seem to have been careful, methodical and eminently trustworthy. The Howard Associations, with their numerous branches, the Young Men's Christian Association, the various charitable organizations, hospitals, church associations, etc., etc., furnished the most ample and efficient machinery for the care of the sick, burial of the dead and the wants of those in need of food, shelter and clothing. The fidelity with which they discharged their trust as almoners of the contributions of the people is in the highest degree honorable. These various organizations probably distributed supplies and money amounting to not less than a million and a half or two millions of dollars, and the fact no voice has been raised in criticism or fault finding, shows the fidelity with which the trust has been discharged.

Subscription books for the various Sub-Committees, certified by the signatures of the President and Secretary of the General Committee, and the official seal of the Chamber of Commerce, were prepared for delivery on the day following the selection of these Committees. The Committees at once commenced their work of canvassing the city for subscriptions; but in anticipation of a liberal response, and to meet urgent calls from the south, the General Committee advanced eleven hundred dollars, which was disposed of as follows, being the first relief money sent south from this city.

PITTSBURGH, August 21st, 1878.

To Howard Association, New Orleans, La.:

Draw on Pittsburgh Relief Committee, John D. Scully, Cashier of First National Bank, for three hundred dollars for the sufferers.

CHARLES MEYRAN, Secretary Relief Committee.

PITTSBURGH, August 21st, 1878.

To Brown & Jones, Memphis, Tenn. :

Draw on Pittsburgh Relief Committee, John D. Scully, Cashier of First National Bank, for four hundred dollars for the sufferers.

Charles Meyran, Secretary Relief Committee.

PITTSBURGH, August 21st, 1878.

To Mattingly, Flowery & Co., Vicksburg, Miss. :

Draw on Pittsburgh Relief Committee, John D. Scully, Cashier of First National Bank, for four hundred dollars for the sufferers.

Charles Meyran, Secretary Relief Committee.

Regular correspondence by mail and telegraph followed these dispatches, with the relief organizations of the southern towns and cities, as the subscriptions of our citizens commenced to flow into the relief fund. The collections of the Committees for the first two days aggregated only about fifteen hundred dollars, but a great deal of necessary preliminary work was done for the thorough canvassing of the city and county. On the 23d of August the minute of the Committee Report "the subscriptions coming in with characteristic generosity, nearly four thousand dollars having already been paid in, and transferred by telegraph to the south."

Church and School Subscriptions.

The General Committee, as part of the work suggested by resolution that a special collection for the yellow fever sufferers be also taken up in the churches of the various denominations of Allegheny County, and requested the pastors thereof to carry out the suggestion. The acknowledgment of subscriptions shows the generosity of the response by the churches.

By the co-operation of the educational authorities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, on a fixed day a penny collection was invited from the children attending the public schools of the two cities. It was small in amount, but was a good lesson for the little folks in practical charity, and served to impress on their minds the extent of the calamity afflicting the people of the south. The contributions of the school children and churches reached upwards of one thousand dollars.

Concert for the Benefit of the Relief Fund.

In accordance with the suggestions of the Committee published by the daily press, the representatives of a number of musical organizations of the city and vicinity, met at the Monongahela House on the 22d of August, and decided to give a concert at Library Hall, on Friday, August 30th, for the benefit of the relief fund, under the direction of the Frohsinn Society, Professor Lohman, Director. The Gounod Club also co-operated in this enterprise. The concert was successful, and realized a considerable sum to the relief fund. The programme of the entertainment is appended as a proper acknowledgment to the artists who participated:

Sending Clothing and Supplies South.

On the 29th of August, Mayor LIDDELL received pressing telegraphic dispatches from F. Dolhonde, President of the Peabody Subsistence Committee, of New Orleans, stating that great distress prevailed among the destitute, and asking for supplies of food by rail as soon as possible. The Mayor immediately called a conference of leading business men at his office, to whom he explained the pressing call received. The Mayor was made Chairman of the meeting, with Col. J. E. Unger as Secretary, and committees appointed to collect supplies and arrange for transportation.

The next day an adjourned meeting of business men was held to further the sending of supplies. Frank Sellers occupied the Chair, and Otis Shetherd served as Secretary. Col. E. J. Unger and J. D. Scully presented a letter from S. M. Felton, Jr., of the Pan Handle Railway, announcing that his Company would transport all goods intended for the relief of the sufferers free of cost. This generous offer was accepted with thanks by the Committee.

The warehouse of Mr. Geo. S. Head, 253 Liberty Street, was tendered the Committee. Committees on supplies, storage, flour and groceries were appointed as follows:

ON SUPPLIES.

Messis. Daniel Wallace,
Joseph Henderson,

The Secretary of the General Committee, Mr. Charles Meyran, also had several thousand circulars appealing for contributions of produce, printed and distributed through Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, and adjacent counties of West Virginia. In many instances there was a generous response. Including what was purchased and contributed, about fifteen car loads of supplies were shipped south. As illustrating the character of these shipments, the bills of lading of four cars sent to different points are added:

Car Load to New Orleans. Sent to the Howard Association:—200 sacks flour, 2 tierces hams, 10 barrels shoulders, sugar cured; 2 barrels breakfast bacon, 10 cases canned tomators, 10 cases canned corn, 15 cases string and lima beans, 3 barrels copperas, 3 barrels carbolic acid.

Car Load to Vicksburg. To T. R. Roach, Treasurer of the Howard Association:—160 sacks flour, 1 tierce ham, 8 barrels shoulders, 2 barrels breakfast bacon, 10 cases canned tomatoes, 12 cases canned Baker corn, 15 cases canned beans and peas, 3 barrels carbolic acid, 3 barrels copperas, 8 dozen cans condensed milk, 4 dozen cans Liebig's extract of beef, 12 dozen packages mustard, 4 dozen (2 oz.) castor oil, 2 boxes lemons, 1 barrel white sugar, 1 chest black tea, 48 half bottles champagne.

CAR TO MEMPHIS. To Charles G. Fisher, Chairman of the Relief Committee:—160 sacks flour, 1 tierce hams, 10 barrels shoulders (sugar cured), 5 barrels beans, 5 barrels army crackers, 10 cases canned tomatoes, 10 cases canned corn, 10 cases lima and string beans, 5 cases canned peas, 2 barrels carbolic acid, 2 barrels copperas

CAR TO GRENADA. To the Howard Association:—160 sacks flour, 1 tierce hams, 8 barrels sugar cured shoulders, 2 barrels breakfast bacon, 1 barrel sugar, 1 box coffee, 1 box tea, 48 half bottles champagne, 2 barrels carbolic acid, 2 barrels copperas, 10 cases canned tomatoes, 10 cases canned corn, 10 cases canned string and lima beans, and 5 cases canned peas.

Collection of Relief Funds.

It is not necessary that your Committee should enter into a detailed narrative of the methods adopted to collect relief funds. The appeal to our people met with a characteristically generous and prompt response. The statement appended, of receipts, shows how general were the subscriptions, and that all classes of the citizens of Allegheny County aided in the good work. The poor gave of their small savings and the wealthy from their abundance. In our great mills and manufacturing establishments there were liberal subscriptions by employes. The coal and iron interests responded to the call on them by generous subscriptions. Many of the trades contributed through their organizations, while the subscriptions of the religious, charitable and literary societies, and of the various secret orders and societies, and from public entertainments given for the benefit of the fund, helped to swell the aggregate. There was, as we have said, the most cordial co-operation from the whole community; business men and manufacturers, employes and clerks: members of the learned professions, and especially the clergy; while the women were prominent in the good work, as they always are in matters of active benevolence. A pleasing feature of the collection of funds, was the distribution of fifty contribution boxes at the post office, depots, bridges, and other points throughout Pittsburgh and Allegheny, for the reception of anonymous contributions, and the success which attended it. On the first of October, the Committee having on hand a balance of twelve thousand dollars, issued the following card to be published:

To the Public.—The Pittsburgh Relief Committee respectfully recommend that collections for the Yellow Fever Fund be suspended for the present. They believe with the amount now on hand, together with what has been subscribed, and in course of collection, to be sufficient for present necessities.

Very respectfully,

C. MEYRAN, Secretary.

The subscriptions, however, continued to come in for some time after this announcement.

The Amount Contributed in Pittsburgh and Vicinity.

In the appended report of the Treasurer of the Relief Fund, John D. Scully, Esq., it has been the aim to give proper credit for all subscriptions that have passed through the hands of the Committee, omitting no subscription or donation of supplies, whether great or small.

The total amount received and accounted for by the Committee and the Treasurer, is $32,983 52.

But this does not represent by any means, the full amount of aid contributed in this City and vicinity to the vellow fever sufferers. There were large contributions transmitted south outside of the Committee, Mr. Meyran, the Secretary of the Committee, published a request for a statement of these contributions, that they might be included in the statement of receipts; but there was no general response, and it is not deemed advisable to add those that have been furnished, as they do not indicate the full amount. It is believed, however, that the aggregate of sums sent to the yellow fever districts by the Masonic bodies, the Odd Fellows, the Ancient Order of United Workmen, the Knights of Pythias, and other organizations of a similar character; the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, and Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroads, the Pittsburgh Clearing House, and by private individuals or associations, has not fallen below fifteen thousand dollars. This is regarded as a moderate estimate, and makes the aggregate of moneys sent from Pittsburgh and its vicinity to the fever districts, not less than forty-eight thousand dollars.

The Plan of Distribution.

A word of explanation as to the plan of distributing the funds adopted by the Committee. After counsel with those who had experience in distributing relief funds, it was determined as the best policy not to exhaust ourselves by large remittances to any one place or organization, but hold the money subject to pressing calls for aid. In this way the Committee covered a great deal of ground, and were in funds to meet pressing demands from the fever districts after subscriptions had very generally been suspended throughout the country. We are satisfied this was the part of wisdom, and it enabled us to apply all the money so generously contributed to the alleviation of distress.

Nothing was wasted or heedlessly disbursed. A list of the places to which the Committee sent pecuniary aid and supplies, shows distribution was made to Vicksburg, Miss.; Memphis, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; Grenada, Miss.; Mobile, Ala.; Holly Springs, Miss.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Hernando, Greenville and Columbia, Miss.; to the relief steamer "Chambers;" to the Lieut. Benner Fund, as well as to needy refugees from the south, and to nurses and telegraph operators sent south.

At the height of the epidemic, on a call for volunteers for the telegraphic service in the fever districts, three young men of this city tendered their services, and died of fever while faithfully performing their duty. These were ALVA S. HAWKINS and HUGH MITCHELL GOEWEY, who died at Memphis, Tenn.; and EDWARD POLLARD, who died at Hickman, Kentucky.

Southern Acknowledgments.

A pleasing part of the duty assigned your Committee has been the reception of the many earnest and touching evidences we have had from the people of the south-west, evincing their appreciation of the aid sent them by the people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. This note, addressed to a leading citizen, illustrates the spirit and heartiness of these acknowledgments:

Howard Association of Vicksburg, Vicksburg, Miss., August 26th, 1878.

John Harper, Esq., President Clearing House, Pittsburgh, Pa.:

MY DEAR SIR:—I hardly know how to address my thanks to the banks and people of Pittsburgh for their very noble charity. Suffice it to say that various remittances to us, to date, exceed in proportion to your population, those of any city in the Union, except one.

Could you see the distress that this noble charity is alleviating you might form some estimate of our gratitude—otherwise you never can. Invoking a blessing upon your people, I am,

Very truly yours,

T. R. Roach, Treasurer.

Two days later Mr. Roach, on behalf of the Howard Association, wrote John D. Scully, Esq., Treasurer of the Committee, as follows:

Vicksburg, Miss., 28th August, 1878.

J. D. Scully, Esq.:

Pittsburgh challenges alike our admiration and profound gratitude by her noble charity. We have over 1,000 sick in whose behalf I offer our thanks and blessings.

The Howard Association, by

T. R. ROACH, Treasurer.

Many letters and dispatches of similar character were received from the different localities to which the Committee sent relief. There have also been received the general proceedings of public meetings held in New Orleans, Memphis, and other places, acknowledging in eloquent and fitting terms the aid received in their affliction and distress. They bear ample evidence of the appreciation by our fellow countrymen of the south of the labors and liberality put forth in their behalf. The proceedings of a meeting of the southern Senators and Representatives in Congress, held in Washington in December last, are among the most notable and interesting of these manifestations, as it assumed the character of a general acknowledgment by the Representatives of the entire southern people. It was attended by nearly all the southern members, and presided over by Senator Eusris, of Louisiana. The Committee on Resolutions consisted of the following gentlemen:

Hon. E. John Ellis, Louisiana. Hon. A. H. Garland, Arkansas.

" L. Q. C. LAMAR, Mississippi. " VAN H. MANNING, Mississippi. " I. G. HARRIS, Tennessee. " John Goode, Jr., Virginia.

Who reported a preamble and resolutions which, after harmonious discussion, were unanimously adopted, as expressive not only of the feelings of the meeting, but of the whole southern people.

The preamble recites in cloquent language the "great, generous and speedy charity," of other sections of the Union to the afflicted communities, and makes special mention of the physicians and nurses, who hastened to succor the distressed, many of whom fell martyrs in the cause of stricken humanity.

Your Committee quotes two of the resolutions adopted, which we are confident will be accepted in the broad spirit of American patriotism which prompted them:

Resolved, That to the generous and great-hearted men and women of our sister States of the north, whose munificent and boundless charity was so freely and bountifully bestowed upon our stricken people, we tender our heartfelt thanks. Forgetful of the fact that war had once divided us from them; no longer mindful of the differences and bitterness of the unhappy past, their great hearts flowed out to us in healing and living streams of brotherly affection and charity; and, if in unhappy war, they thought it their duty to smite us with the arm of power, yet in peace they sought us in affliction, and the hand that was able to smite, became the hand of the gentle, the loving, the merciful.

Resolved, That the great and munificent charity manifested toward us and our people by our brethren of the northern States of the Union has not only healed the sick, fed the hungry, clothed the naked, solaced the dying, gave hope and comfort to the widow and orphan and buried the dead. It has accomplished a work far higher and more important. It has healed the wounds of war; it has served to permit us to see our brethren of the American Union as they really are; it has bound our hearts to theirs; it has cemented anew the bonds between them and us; it has renewed the aspirations of all of our people toward the idea of an American Union based upon affection. To-day, far above the victorious flag of Appomatox floats the banner of love and charity. Better, brighter and far more enduring are the victories of love and mercy over those of war, conquest and subjugation; and now, with the shadows and the sorrows of our chastisements upon us, and with hearts all full to overflowing with the memories of the good and kindly deeds of our brethren of the northern States, done to our people in the hours when they stood face to face with the awful pestilence, we ask our brethren of the north to believe, and to trust us while we pledge to them the undying fealty of our hearts to the Constitution of our common country, and the perpetual Union of the States thereunder—not alone the physical, geographical and political Union, but a union of affection, of brotherhood, inspired by the idea of a common origin and a common destiny, ratified by the covenant of our fathers, and now cemented forever by their love and their charity to us and our people.

In Conclusion.

In concluding this report the Relief Committee desire to tender their acknowledgments specially to the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, for the free transportation of supplies; to the Pennsylvania Railroad for transportation furnished yellow fever refugees passing through the city; to the Western Union Telegraph Company for its liberality in transmitting messages to the fever districts free of cost; to the daily and weekly press of Pittsburgh and Allegheny for its important services in promoting the success of the Committee's work; and finally, to the whole body of the people of Allegheny County for their hearty and generous cooperation.

On behalf of the Committee,

CHARLES MEYRAN.

PITTSBURGH RELIEF COMMITTEE.

Distribution of Funds Remaining on Hand.

APPOINTMENT OF AUDITING COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the General Committee having in charge the collection of funds for the Yellow Fever Sufferers, was held at the Monongahela House, on Friday, September 27th, 1878, to consider what disposition should be made of the money in the possession of the Committee, telegrams having been received from the South that there were sufficient funds on hand there to meet all probable calls for aid.

There were present, J. McDonald Crossan. Chairman of the General Committee; C. Meyran, Secretary; J. D. Scully, Treasurer, and Messrs. Capt. Richard C. Gray, Charles J. Clarke, John Harper, Wm. A. Herron, J. D. Baldwin, and Capt. W. J. Kountz. The Chairman stated the object of the meeting was to dispose of the funds on hands, amounting to $9,281 17.

A resolution offered by J. D. Scully, was passed to send—

$2,000 to the Howards of New Orleans.

2,000 to the Howards of Memphis,

1,500 to the Howards of Vicksburg.

500 to the Steamboatmen's Relief Association.

with instructions that the funds thus sent be especially applied to orphans, whose parents have died of Yellow Fever.

Mr. Meyran stated that the public had been notified that no further contributions are needed, if, however, more should be received by the Committee, they will distribute the same to such places where help is mostly needed.

On motion, Messis. John Harper, R. C. Gray, John W. Chalfant and Chas, J. Clarke, were appointed a Committee to act in conjunction with the Executive Committee in the matter of disposing of the money now on hand; and the four gentlemen named were also designated a Committee to audit the accounts of the Treasurer.

On motion, the General Committee adjourned sine die.

C. MEYRAN.
